

Tatiana Anikina-Dick

I was born and raised in Kazakhstan. I came to the US as a young adult and did growth within the society fast (thanks to the US adult education system!). My first full-time job in the US was a GS-09, Operations Specialist, where I was a member of training team to the USAREUR units bound for deployments and trained them to deal with operational environments (stability, security, humanitarian-assistance, etc.); supervised activities of up to 150 multicultural civilian and US military personnel. I have extensive the Department of Defense-wide experience as a government employee and have served as a contractor in the capacity of adviser, consultant, and Subject Matter Expert (on all matters related to acquisition processes, preparation of analysis, research, recommendations, and implementations of policies, procedures, directives, etc.) at the US Securities and Exchange Commission. I am a wife of retired Army veteran, proud mother of an active Armed Service' member and considered to be a "young" grandmother ;0)! I love to travel, read, spend time with family, friends and my fur buddies!
